Weekly Round Up

Equity Markets

Global equity markets ended mostly lower last week, amid concerns about global economic growth. UK markets ended in positive territory in the last week. On the data front, UK's industrial production unexpectedly fell in March, while the nation's BRC like-for-like retail sales dropped for the first time since January 2021 in April. Further, UK's trade deficit widened in March. On the flipside, the RICS housing price balance advanced at its fastest rate since June 2021 in April. European markets finished in the green during the week, following strong corporate earnings reports. On the macro front, Euro-zone's economic sentiment index climbed more than market forecast in May, while the region's industrial production fell less than expected in March. Separately, Germany's consumer price index (CPI) advanced in line with market forecast in April, while the nation's economic sentiment index unexpectedly rose in May. Meanwhile, Germany's current situation index declined in May. US markets closed on a weaker footing in the previous week, amid concerns over the Federal Reserve's aggressive rate hikes. On the economic front, US initial jobless claims unexpectedly rose in the week ended 6 May 2022, while the nation's US small business optimism index remained steady at the lowest level since April 2020 in April. Also, the Michigan consumer sentiment index dropped to a 11-year low in May. On the contrary, the US budget statement posted a surplus in April, while the nation's MBA mortgage applications rose in the week ended 6 May 2022. Also, the US producer price index rose more than market forecast in April. Asian markets finished mostly lower during the week.

- In the UK, the FTSE 100 index rose 0.4% to end the week at 7,418.15, while the FTSE 250 advanced 0.5% to close at 19,921.89.
- Amongst European markets, the DAX climbed 2.6% to finish the week at 14,027.93.
- In the US, DJIA lost 2.1% to end the week at 32,196.66, and the S&P 500 index slid 2.4% to end at 4,023.89.

Currency Markets

- The EUR ended lower against the USD last week, after Euro-zone's investor confidence index dropped for a third straight month in May, recording its lowest level since June 2020.
- The GBP ended lower against the USD in the prior week, after UK's gross domestic product fell in March.
- The USD ended higher against its peers in the previous week, as risk aversion increased among investors.
- The GBP fell 0.7% against the USD to finish at 1.2262, while the EUR declined 1.3% against the USD to close at 1.0412.

Gold

- Gold prices fell last week, amid strength in the US Dollar.
- Gold prices declined 4.0% to close the week at $1,808.20/oz.

Commodities

- Brent oil prices dropped last week, amid fears about crude demand, due to ongoing geopolitical tensions.
- Brent crude oil prices fell 0.7% to $111.55/barrel.

Corporate News and Updates

- Media sector stocks gained a lot of attention last week. Future announced that it has purchased WhoWhatWear, a women's lifestyle platform, for an undisclosed sum. Peer, ITV reported stronger first quarter revenues.
- In other corporate news, BT Group announced a deal to combine its sports broadcasting unit with Discovery.

Saturday News

Tesco fears £2.4 billion hit from future cyberattack: The growing threat hackers pose to businesses has led Tesco to conduct a cyberattack stress test for the first time, which found that a breach could cost it up to £2.4 billion in fines.

Nova facing inquiry over collapsed firms' debts: A start-up investment group backed by Sir Terry Leahy that secured close to £11 million in emergency pandemic loans is being scrutinised over a series of insolvencies set to cost taxpayers about £2 million.

JPMorgan Chief Jamie Dimon faces vote on $52.6 million bonus: Jamie Dimon faces a vote on his $52.6 million bonus after two influential shareholder advisory groups urged JPMorgan Chase investors to oppose the one-time stock option award.

Sage advice is optimistic for software: The Chief Executive of Sage, the software giant, has shrugged off the market sell-off in technology stocks and insisted that his business will be "very resilient" in turbulent times.

Embattled Amigo wins support for loan scheme: Amigo, the embattled guarantor loans company, has won support from its creditors for a deal that could inch it towards a £112 million compensation payout to customers and an injection of fresh capital.

Biggest sovereign wealth fund will fight excessive pay deals: The head of the world's largest sovereign wealth fund, which owns the equivalent of 1.3% of every listed company in the world, has said it will use its power to vote down excessive and unjustified salary packages.

Honest appraisal lifts Jessica Alba care brand: Shares in the Hollywood actress Jessica Alba's Honest Company received a lift as the personal care group reaffirmed its annual forecasts despite "softness" in the online retail market. Losses at the business more than tripled to $14.6 million in the latest quarter as revenue dropped 15% to $68.7 million. It blamed "significant macro headwinds" as inflation bites and consumers return to high streets and shopping centres.

Boots suitors given more time to plan bid offers: The bid battle for Boots is expected to stretch into the next month at least after the three remaining suitors for the health and beauty chain requested more information on recent trading.

Ex-Morrisons head joins Greencore: Dalton Phillips, former Chief Executive of Wm Morrison, has been appointed to lead Greencore, the convenience food group. The FTSE 250 company, Britain's biggest maker of sandwiches, said yesterday that Phillips, 54, would join the board in late September.

Butti tycoons agree NMC bankruptcy deal: Two Emirati tycoons and former controlling shareholders of NMC Health have reached a settlement with administrators of the failed FTSE-100 company after they petitioned for bankruptcy in the United Arab Emirates.

WeWork clears up after office party: WeWork's head Sandeep Mathrani has sought to reassure shareholders that the leaner and more "disciplined" company is not running out of steam. The shared office space provider, once valued at $47 billion, suffered a spectacular fall from grace in 2019 after concerns about its business model and corporate governance under the eccentric leadership of its founder Adam Neumann.

Sunday News

Abu Dhabi giant Etisalat in £3.3 billion raid on Vodafone: An Abu Dhabi telecoms giant has launched a £3.3 billion raid on Vodafone's shares in a shock swoop that ratchets up pressure on under-fire Chief Executive Nick Read. State-controlled Emirates Telecommunications Group, known as Etisalat, has snapped up a 9.8% stake in the FTSE 100 giant to become the mobile operator's largest shareholder.

Twitter under fire over fake accounts after Elon Musk challenge: Twitter was facing renewed pressure this weekend to clarify how many of its accounts are fake as a leading academic backed Elon Musk's questioning of the social media site's claims.

Boots owner Walgreens takes £4 billion dividend from U.K. empire: The American owner of Boots has extracted more than $5.3 billion (£4.3 billion) of dividends from its U.K. holding companies despite raking in hundreds of millions of pounds of government support and slashing jobs during the pandemic.

Treasury's top bank mandarin Charles Roxburgh set to quit: Charles Roxburgh, the senior mandarin in charge of financial services, growth and infrastructure, is to stand down from one of Whitehall's highest-profile roles.

Risk Warning & Disclaimer

CFD and Spread betting Risk Warning

All trading involves risk. Spread bets and CFDs are complex instruments and come with a high risk of losing money rapidly due to leverage. 66% of retail investor accounts lose money when trading spread bets and CFDs with this provider. You should consider whether you understand how spread bets and CFDs work, and whether you can afford to take the high risk of losing your money. Professional clients can lose more than they deposit.

Shares Risk Warning

The value of stocks and shares, and the income from them, can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the full amount you originally invested. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance.

If you are unsure about dealing in shares and other equity investments, you should contact your financial adviser as these types of investments may not be suitable for everyone.
