Equity Markets

- Global equity markets ended mostly lower last week, amid concerns over higher interest rates and rising inflation. UK markets ended in negative territory in the last week. On the data front, UK's consumer confidence index fell more than expected in January, while the region's retail sales dropped in December. On the flipside, UK's inflation jumped to its highest level in three decades in December, while the nation's unemployment rate unexpectedly fell in November. European markets finished in the red during the week. On the economic front, Euro-zone's consumer price index (CPI) advanced more than expected in December, while the region's economic sentiment index unexpectedly rose in January. Further, Euro-zone's consumer confidence index fell less than expected in January. Separately, Germany's inflation rose to a 30-year high in December, while the nation's economic sentiment index jumped to a 6-month high in January. Moreover, Germany's producer price index rose more than market forecast in December, recording its biggest annual increase in history. On the contrary, Germany's current situation index dropped more than expected in January. US markets closed on a weaker footing in the previous week, on prospect of an interest rate hike by the US Federal Reserve. On the macro economic front, the US initial jobless claims unexpectedly jumped to a three-month high level in the week ended 14 January 2022, while the nation's existing home sales declined in December. Also, the US housing market index unexpectedly fell for the first time in four months in January. On the other hand, the US Philadelphia Fed manufacturing index climbed more than forecasted in January. Asian markets finished mixed during the week.
- In the UK, the FTSE 100 index fell 0.6% to end the week at 7494.13, while the FTSE 250 declined 2.1% to close at 22263.24.
- Amongst European markets, the DAX shed 1.8% to finish the week at 15603.88.
- In the US, DJIA dropped 4.6% to end the week at 34,265.37, and the S&P 500 index declined 5.7% to end at 4,397.94.

Currency Markets

- The EUR ended lower against the USD in the previous week, following a dovish stance by the European Central Bank.
- The GBP ended lower against the USD last week, after UK's retail sales dropped more than expected in December.
- The USD ended mostly higher against its peers in the prior week, ahead of the US Federal Reserve's monetary policy meeting.
- The GBP fell 0.9% against the USD to finish at 1.3553, while the EUR declined 0.6% against the USD to close at 1.1344.

Gold

- Gold prices rose last week, on inflation worries.
- Gold prices advanced 1.0% to close the week at $1,834.10/oz.

Commodities

- Brent oil prices gained last week, amid expectations that global crude supply would remain tight.
- Brent crude oil prices rose 2.1% to $87.89/barrel.

Corporate News and Updates

- Energy sector stocks gained a lot of attention last week. Genel Energy forecasted its free cash flow to more than double in 2022, citing higher oil prices. Peer, BP announced that it has signed two contracts with the Omani government to support the proposed development of a multiple gigawatt, renewable energy, and green hydrogen development facility in Oman by 2030.
- In other corporate news, GlaxoSmithKline rejected Unilever's £50 billion buyout offer for its consumer healthcare business.

Saturday News

Investors turn on 'arrogant' Unilever over failed £50 billion GSK bid: Angry Unilever investors have warned the consumer goods giant against attempting any further big acquisitions and sent a coded message to Chief Executive Alan Jope that his job is on the line. Shares in the FTSE 100 maker of Comfort fabric softener and Domestos bleach fell by almost 7% last week after The Sunday Times revealed it had made a £50 billion bid for Glaxo Smith Kline's consumer health business. Glaxo rejected the last of three offers on New Year's Eve, saying that the price "fundamentally" undervalued its prospects.

Energy price cap rise hits 22 million homes: A record increase to the government's price cap on energy bills will affect at least three quarters of British households after seven million customers moved to tariffs covered by the policy. The number of households covered by the energy price cap has soared to 22 million, from 15 million in August, the energy regulator told The Times.

Morrisons kicks off hunt to replace Head David Potts after £7 billion takeover: Morrisons' private equity owners have kicked off a search for a new Chief Executive after David Potts signalled his intent to stand down in about two years. Clayton, Dubilier & Rice (CD&R) has enlisted headhunters from Skill Capital to find a replacement for Potts, 64, who has led the grocer since 2015. Skill Capital is said to have begun approaching potential candidates towards the end of last year.

Serbia blocks Rio Tinto lithium mine days after Djokovic exit: Tensions between Serbia and Australia have escalated after Belgrade pulled the plug on Rio Tinto's plans for a huge lithium mine. The miner was said to have been "blindsided" by the decision, which came less than a week after Novak Djokovic, the Serbian tennis star, was deported on the eve of the Australian Open. It also follows weeks of environmental protests in Belgrade and elsewhere in Serbia, which have clogged up key roads and bridges.

Tom Hall stands in way of Playtech bid: A Hong Kong-based former Chief Executive of Playtech has built a stake in the company and is thought to be acting as a conduit for a group of Asian investors said to be seeking to block a takeover. Tom Hall is understood to be the only investor that the gambling technology company has been able to speak to among a group of investors that have been building stakes in Playtech since Aristocrat, an Australian gambling group, unveiled a £2.1 billion bid for the business in October.

Cutting costs set to deliver profit boost for The Restaurant Group: The Restaurant Group has lifted its annual profit forecast to the top end of expectations after the Wagamama owner cut costs to deal with food and drink inflation and labour market pressures.

Financial Conduct Authority investigation into M&C Saatchi closes: The City watchdog has closed its investigation into M&C Saatchi and will take no enforcement action against the advertising agency. The company, which upgraded its profit guidance for its last financial year, revealed in January 2020 that the Financial Conduct Authority had begun a formal inquiry into its accounts, which it had to revise twice in the preceding months after discovering a series of errors.

Sunday News

Barclays hands new Head Venkat £6,500 a month to move to London: Barclays has offered to pay its new Head CS Venkatakrishnan £6,550 a month to cover his accommodation costs for almost two years on top of his £2.7 million salary — in the clearest sign yet that the New York-based banker will have to relocate to London.

Vodafone linked to takeover of mobile rival Three: Telecoms giant Vodafone has reportedly approached rival Three U.K. about a multibillion-pound takeover that could spark a wave of interest in Britain's smallest mobile operator. The FTSE 100 company explored a deal last month to buy Three from CK Hutchison, the Hong Kong group controlled by billionaire Li Ka-shing, Bloomberg reported. The approach did not lead to a deal and the talks are not currently active.

The Wolseley restaurant tycoons Corbin & King battle biggest investor: It is the restaurant group where rival FTSE 100 Heads dine at neighbouring tables. But Corbin & King is now facing off with an opponent of its own. Last week, the illustrious owner of The Wolseley and The Delaunay filed a motion in the High Court to stop its majority owner, Minor Hotels, calling in a £35 million loan, which would have forced the company into insolvency.

Aviva to eject company directors if climate goals are not met: Aviva Investors will fire a warning shot at British boardrooms this week by saying it will vote against the election of directors at companies where their commitments on climate change, biodiversity and human rights fall short of its expectations.

Cazoo share slump dents DMGT deal value: The value that shareholders in Daily Mail & General Trust received from its £2.8 billion takeover has plunged by £565 million due to the collapse in the value of the Cazoo online car retailer. The Rothermere family investment vehicle took DMGT off the stock market earlier this month in a complex deal funded mainly in cash but partly with shares in Cazoo, a company DMGT backed in its early stages.

Mike Ashley makes £10 million claim against Amanda Staveley over Newcastle Utd deal: Mike Ashley is claiming at least £10 million in legal proceedings against Amanda Staveley, the financier who acted as an intermediary when the British retail billionaire sold Newcastle United to an investor consortium led by Saudi Arabia's sovereign wealth fund. Ashley is claiming the sum, plus interest, over a £10 million "vendor loan" he made to Staveley to cover "advisory, legal, and other costs and commissions" as they pursued the transaction, which was held up for months before completion last October.

Housebuilders prepare legal battle after Government demands billions for repairs: Housing developers are preparing to fight a government demand to spend billions of pounds on cladding repair costs after Michael Gove threatened to block the industry from building new properties. Major housebuilders plan to hire a Big Four accounting firm to examine whether the Levelling Up Secretary's £4 billion price tag for a cladding compensation scheme is too high. Their trade body, the Home Builders Federation (HBF), is also set to instruct external lawyers so it is ready to take legal action.

U.K. firms weigh risks of forcing their staff to get coronavirus jabs: The topic of Covid has proved so divisive at the women's healthcare business run by Julie Čolan that she has banned all mention of it during team meetings. The pandemic has been a "nightmare" for company owner Čolan, after she saw trade fairs and exhibitions cancelled, leaving her with money tied up in unsold stock. On top of that, she has been worrying about the wellbeing of her staff.

Royal Mail hit by decade high of more than 1 million complaints: Royal Mail received more than a million complaints from householders last year, the highest level for a decade. An analysis of Royal Mail quality service reports reveals that it investigated 1,135,441 consumer complaints in the year to 28 March 2021. This is an increase of nearly 50% compared with the previous year.

Tax on parking: U.K. cities to impose levy on cars in bid to cut pollution: Councils across the U.K. are using radical strategies to cut the number of polluting vehicles on their streets in response to the climate emergency. Leicester city council hopes a new charge on workplace parking will improve air quality, fund public transport and incentivise walking and cycling.

Glasgow 249 West George Street: City centre building developer secures £2.5 million loan as it mulls options: The developer of an office building in Glasgow city centre with planning permission for a 113-room aparthotel has secured a £2.5 million bridging loan from Unbranded Finance. The loan to developer Courie Investments is secured against the building at 249 West George Street, on the corner of Blythswood Square, Unbranded Finance noted.

Firms backed by Glasgow-based Nevis eye expansion: Glasgow-based Nevis Capital has underlined its appetite for deals amid the recovery from the pandemic. Nevis said it expects to add at least one new business to its investment portfolio this year, following a period in which the coronavirus crisis and the fallout from the Brexit vote in 2016 have posed challenges for dealmakers.

Risk Warning & Disclaimer

CFD and Spread betting Risk Warning
All trading involves risk. Spread bets and CFDs are complex instruments and come with a high risk of losing money rapidly due to leverage. 66% of retail investor accounts lose money when trading spread bets and CFDs with this provider. You should consider whether you understand how spread bets and CFDs work, and whether you can afford to take the high risk of losing your money. Professional clients can lose more than they deposit.

Shares Risk Warning
The value of stocks and shares, and the income from them, can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the full amount you originally invested. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance.

If you are unsure about dealing in shares and other equity investments, you should contact your financial adviser as these types of investments may not be suitable for everyone.
